Sociology At Work

You are invited to join sociologists from the British Sociological Association's Applied Sociology group and beyond for an evening of presentations on experiences as a sociologist outside academic settings. Speakers include Dr Tina Basi, Prof Nick Fox, and Dr Don Slater. There will also be an opportunity to network and meet other students.

18th October 6:00-8:30
London School of Economics
Connaught House Room 7.05
65 Aldwych, London WC2B 4DS

Photo by Debby Hudson on Unsplash

Dr Tina Basi is an applied sociologist working at the cutting edge of technology and social practices with clients such as Facebook, Intel, Home Office, Department of Health, and Ministry of Justice.

Professor Nick Fox is a part-time professor of sociology, and has a business providing online training to health professionals. He led the development of the BSA Applied Sociology curriculum.

Dr Don Slater leads Configuring Light, a research programme that works with designers, city governments and planners to explore how social research can help improve lighting and urban design for public space.

Photo by Karen Lau on Unsplash